ALLEGED ASSAULT AND INSULT.

FURTHER HEARING.

The case in which Dr. Meherji B. Master charged (1) Bagot, (2) Morini and (3) Abus, charged all of son "d-changir", a pilgrimage with assault and insult came up before Mr. S. S. Rangnekar, Chief Presidency Magistrate on Monday afternoon for further hearing.

Mr. K. F. Nariman appeared for the complainant and Mr. Baker, Solicitor, appeared for the accused.

The facts of the case are already reported in these columns.

Mr. Baker in reply to the Court stated the place where the incident occurred was under dispute between the Kings of Hedjaz and the Wahabites. It was under blockade.

Mr. K. F. Nariman submitted that parts under Persian Gulf were governed by the Indian Penal Code under Government of India regulations.

His Worship said he had gone through the legal points involved and found that he had no jurisdiction under the Indian Penal Code or Criminal Procedure Code against a foreigner as the incident had occurred in a foreign port. There were however two statutes that empowered him with jurisdiction over a foreigner, viz—Administration of Justice Act and Merchants' Shipping Act. The latter referred to the jurisdiction given to the Court on the high seas but as the foreign port was not high seas, he thought the section 660 which gave him the jurisdiction failed. In regard to the Jurisdiction Act, His Worship said it gave him power within one Marine League of the Admiralty jurisdiction but as the port where the incident occurred was not within that limit, he thought, he had no jurisdiction over a foreigner and he therefore discharged the defendant who was a Portuguese subject and as such a foreigner.

The case against the first and second accused was then proceeded with. Mr. Nariman then applied to examine Mr. Mohamed Shaf, an M.L.C. of Punjab on commission as he was an eye-witness. Mr. Nariman said, he tried to call Mr. Mohamed Shaf but he said it was very inconvenient for him to come to Bombay.

Mr. Baker said from a letter Mr. Mohamed Shaf had written to the Steamship Company concerned, he thought, he was a natural witness and it would be better if he was produced in Court.

His Worship said he was the only important witness in the case it would be better if the complainant called this witness.

Mr. Nariman replied that his client was not able to produce him.

His Worship asked Mr. Baker if the complainant would not in the interest of truth and justice call Mr. Mohamed Shaf as a witness.

Mr. Baker said the case was groundless though he admitted there was some fight on the ship. He refused to call Mr. Mohamed Shaf as a witness.

"COMPLAINT FROM HAJIS."

The complaint was then examined by Mr. Nariman. He said his relations on board the ship with the accused including the Master were not cordial as he insisted on his rights to sit on the dining table according to his rank. The accused was not below his juniors. On the 20th of May he received complaints from several Hajis that they were not supplied with water and food. When he drew the attention of the Captain, he told the complaint to mind his own business. On the 1st June the Hajis complained regarding some dirt which was lying about. The complainant drew the Captain's attention and he replied the dirt was accumulated by the Hajis themselves and they should suffer for it. On the 22nd Hajis complained was talking with Mr. Mohamed Shaf when he saw a Hajis coming. After two minutes he again saw the Hajis coming. When complainant went to the Hajis' assistance, he collided accidentally with Alphonse. When Alphonse was accosted with the complainant, the complainant and the first and second accused engaged and abused and pushed him.

Replying to the Court witness said Mr. Mohamed Shaf saw a part of the scuffle. Cross-examined by Mr. Baker witness said he did not know that there was order of precedence in regard to the dining table. The Marine Manual but he was informed by other doctors that he had a right to sit on a certain table. It was his duty to thought as a medical man to look to the Hajis' welfare. It was not true that he refused to go to the Captain when ordered to do so.

Dr. Jamshed Mowarri Kotwal, M.B.B.S. a junior medical officer of S.S. "Jettan" that was called and narrated the incident as he saw it. Witness said soon after the scuffle he created the complainant and submitted his medical certificate to the Captain the same day.

His Worship postponed the case and issued commission to examine Mr. Mohamed Shaf.

PROSECUTION UNDER GAMBLING ACT.

Kassam Mohamed, Hasanali Mohamed and Din Mohamed were placed before Mr. S. S. Rangnekar at the Esplanade Police Court on Monday under the Gambling Act.

Mr. H. B. Spencer, who presented stated that the accused Kassam was the manager of the Gem Printing Press which was situated at Carmo House on Phatakawadi Road. He had also hired a room on the first floor of the building where it was alleged, the gaming was going on.

The case against each of the accused was tried separately and that against Kassam was taken up first.

Inspector Wagle in giving evidence said that he had received orders to keep special watch on race days with a view to detect bucket shops and gaming houses. According he posted men at various spots in his section. On Wednesday last to plain clothes constable brought information about a bucket shop said to have been run in Carmo House. A warrant for raid was obtained on Friday. On the following day witness sent a man called Lado Anand with a five rupee note initiated by him (witness) with instructions to stake the amount at the alleged gaming house on two horses the names of which were written on a piece of paper. Lado returned and reported that he had done as directed. Immediately witness, Deputy Inspectors Long and Dero, raided the place. They saw the accused in the press down stairs and when he caught sight of them, he made a signal, they heard the ringing of a bell. In order to prevent the destruction of the accused's property, they hurried upstairs and found in a room there the second and the third accused. The marked notes together with other currency notes and coins were found in the trouser pocket of the accused. Hasanali. There were on the table race cards and pieces of paper with names of horses written on them. While they were in the room nine persons came there with money and names of horses. The accused Kassam who was downstairs was brought upstairs and a race card, some money and pieces of paper containing names of horses were found in his pocket. The nine men who came to bet were present as witnesses.

Mr. Solomon for the accused contended that the warrant was defective as it did not specify the number of the room to be raided and merely stated "Gem Printing Works". The press was downstairs while there were many rooms on the first floor. The warrant was therefore defective.

His Worship remarked that that contention depended on the fact of the existence of several rooms which had to be proved. The case stands adjourned.

ALLEGED DEFAMATION;

CASE AGAINST "JETHAD" EDITOR.

The case, in which Mr. Mirza Hasham Isphani had charged Mr. Ali Bahadur Khan, editor and publisher of a weekly newspaper of Bombay, called "Jethad" with defamation of character and abatement, again came up at the Esplanade Police Court, on Tuesday. It was however postponed on the application of the complainant's pleader.

The complainant, who is a merchant, residing at Warden Road and holding the office of Nazim-ul-Tajir, stated in his information that on September 2, 1925, he filed a complaint before the Sixth Presidency Magistrate of Bombay accusing a person, called Syed Elbrahim Busheri of defamation of character. The complaint was published in several papers, including the "Jethad" in its issue of September 6, 1925. The report was in Urdu and was published under a caption, which when translated into English, the complainant alleged, read: "Evil-doer and Infidel—Mr. Isphani's complaint in Court—Sits with friends and makes his wife drink with them." The heading, the complainant contended, was highly defamatory and calculated to lower him in the public estimation. The defamation, he said was direct and pointed and the heading was printed in bold type in a prominent part of the paper.

The complainant added that the accused had recently made defamatory attacks upon him in his newspapers in connection with certain letters, which he (the complainant) had addressed to the "Times of India" advocating the abolition of the cow-slaughter and deprecating the danger of allowing Hajis to proceed to Mecca, owing to the unsanitary conditions prevalent there, thanks to the Wahabi war. Reserving his right to proceed against the writer, publisher and others concerned in the dissemination of the news contained in the heading, in question, the complainant prayed that the accused might be dealt with according to law. He asked for a search warrant for the seizure of the original manuscript at the Khilafat Press, Bombay, or in the alternative for a summons on the accused for the immediate production of the manuscript in question.

Mr. S. S. Rangnekar, the Chief Presidency Magistrate, sanctioned the latter of the prayers.

Subsequently, a representative of the accused produced the issue of the paper, in question, but no manuscript.

Mr. Philip Godwin, pleader for the complainant, applied to-day for time to get some documents translated officially. The case was postponed to October 23.

ALLEGED CHEATING BY CLERK.

Shrilal Shastri a solicitor's clerk who was accused of theft in a building, cheating etc., in respect of Rs. 2,000 belonging to his master, was remanded into police custody on Tuesday by Mr. S. S. Rangnekar, the Chief Presidency Magistrate of Bombay.

It was alleged by Sub-inspector Sainkar, who put up the accused, that Rao Bahadur Soondas, a solicitor, noticed on Thursday last that some blank cheques were missing from his cheque book and on inquiries at the Bank of Baroda learnt that some body had presented a cheque for Rs. 2,000 in favour of "Shankar Vasoo" and had received the amount. The complainant discovered the signature on the cheque to be a forgery and complained to the police who arrested the accused, as he was in sole charge of the cheque books in the complainant's office and, it was further alleged, that

TWO PARSIS UNDER ARREST.

The Bombay City Police has arrested a Parsi named Rustom Hornusji Patel in connection with the case in which Rustom Byramji Siddha stands accused of obtaining money on false pretences.

On Thursday last one Siddha was alleged to have sent a note to a tea shopkeeper a Princess Street named Ardesfir Hamawani Bani, asking for Rs. 125. It was further alleged that in that note he forged the signature of another person and thereby cheated the complainant, into sending the amount. The person who, the complainant was made to believe had signed the note, denied all knowledge of it, whereupon the complainant reported the matter to the police. The police arrested Siddha three or three days ago and had him remanded into police custody till October 5. In the course of their inquiries the Police arrested last night another Parsi named Pate whom they placed at the Esplanade Police Court on Tuesday, on an application for remand till October 5, which was granted by Mr. S. S. Rangnekar, the Chief Presidency Magistrate of Bombay.

ROVERS TOURNAMENT.

NORTH STAFFORDS BEAT R. A. KIRKEE.

The North Staffords were too good for the R. A. Kirkkee whom they beat on Tuesday by two goals to nil. The score is no true index of the play as the North Staffords were in a class by themselves and the wonder is how they did not win by a bigger margin. The luck seemed to be all with the Artillerymen in the initial period or though their opponents maintained a heavy pressure, something would always happen to avert a goal. In the second half the North Staffords obtained a penalty and Dennis made no mistake with his kick. A little later Manly wound the ball into position and passed to Dennis, who, in turn, having the defence transferred to Sturgis, found the corner of the net with a steady drive. The Staffords continued on the offensive and Loss hit the crossbar. Dennis almost got through, but his shot hit the upright. Miller and Manly were a pair of fine wingers, their centres coming in hard and true. Full time found the North Staffords pressing.

North Staffords: Clark; Brittery and Moffatt; Grogan, Cox and Bayly; Manly, Dennis, Loss, Steele and Miller.

R. A. Kirkkee: Brown; Nash and Lawrence; Smith, Saddle and O'Connor; Leek, Barr, Dugdale, Bright and Larett.

THE UPPER CHAMBER.

Syed Raza Ali has entered the lists as a valiant defender of the ancient chamber which he has adorned all these years. We agree with him that the criticisms against the Council of State have been "fantastic" because the importance of an inner appendage of the Executive Government has been exaggerated out of all proportions to its intrinsic worth. But his championship is not less so. Since Mr. Raza Ali imagines that he can disarm all opposition by raising the fundamental problem of the purpose of a second chamber in India, let us clear his misapprehension on this principal issue. "It is generally realised," he boldly asserts, "that in the present state of our political development, a second chamber is indispensable." This reminds us of the flourish of another ex-Councillor who in the "Servant of India" informs an expectant world, that he cannot lend any countenance to a movement for the abolition of the second chamber. That is very discouraging and the incipient movement may be nipped in the bud for lack of Mr. Sastri's august support. Nevertheless we beg to challenge the utility of a second chamber precisely at the present stage of India's constitutional evolution. For the oft-repeated plea about the need of a brake on hasty legislation is peculiarly inappropriate in a political system where the Legislative Assembly is powerless and the executive is irremovable and popularly irresponsible. The Congress-League Scheme, in fact, did not contemplate it; when Mr. Montagu created a brand-new house of peers shorn of all their hereditary virtues save obscurantism, the Liberal leaders in a memorandum opposed the proposal while the Moderates' Conference suggested that no authority should be vested in the Council for the initiation of laws restricting personal liberty. What did that show except a wholesome apprehension about the possibility of exploiting the Council for anti-national purposes?

But any plan in which the second chamber is intended as a corrective to the lower one is certain to come to grief. For it is preposterous as well as impossible to set up an Assembly which represents the nation on a wide franchise and to create a Council on an undemocratic and narrow franchise to check and defeat its policy. The only consequences will be confusion and strife which have anything but a steady effect. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in one of his earlier works advanced an ingenious dilemma to refute the argument of check on precipitate legislation. If the upper house be reactionary, he observed, it will not check the excesses and follies of reaction; if it is democratic, it will not check the excesses and follies of democracy. But the danger inherent in such a chamber acting as a check is very real since it is capable of strangling public opinion of a normally calm character. The resistance of the British House of Lords to imperative reforms such as Irish home rule or land taxation had brought England to the verge of a revolution, and if the Executive in this country were responsible and popular will were potent, the successive betrayals of the popular causes by the Council of State would have compelled public opinion to attain revolutionary intensity in order to be effective. What we need, indeed, is not a check upon the deliberate will of the people such as the Council has successfully been. In reality, the advocates of a second chamber vaguely aim at some means of securing that the popular decision should be a considered and well-expressed one while all that they achieve is a method of frustrating the popular will through the veto of a section and of a cumbersome constitutional machinery. Here we come up against the real difficulty of constituting an upper chamber. As Mr. Raza Ali, the most ardent advocate of a second chamber, has no definite idea as regards its purpose, he fails to discover how we are likely to get a chamber that will give us all we ask of it. His search for the elements out of which to compose it is entertaining. "If you convert it," the Council into a popular body the justification for its existence will have gone," he remarks. "A second chamber as democratic as the first is but a duplicate." In plain words, he wants the Council to be composed of certain interests so as to be able to protect them against an impetuous democracy and resist or obstruct or delay popular will. "The fact is that this search for a principle of composition and function is the result of a distrust of democracy or else there is no reason why the Council could not be justified as a 'popular body'." Mr. Raza Ali feels that if the Council is not differently constituted it will be superfluous; we may retort that if it is, it will be, as it has been, mischievous. We do not say that an Assembly would be infallible but we refuse to believe that persons simply by virtue of paying thousands of rupees of income tax or land revenue or tribute can become so righteous or experienced as to be entitled to the superior privilege of overriding popular will. Indeed, it is precisely because the Council is not a 'popular body' that Mr. Raza Ali, that it has been discordant with popular wishes. For it has become not a revising chamber but a seat of power of the Government and an antidote to the elected majority in the Assembly; it acts not as a check but as an official Opposition in relation to the lower house. Hence the differences which have arisen between the two Chambers have had relation not so much to the matter in dispute as to the ultimate struggle between an irresponsible Executive and the duly elected representatives of the Indian people. What this body devised as a check has really hindered is the development of a rudimentary constitutional struggle.

ART TENDENCIES.

We have been familiar with the bold brilliance with which Captain Gladstone Solomon has, time and again, described the infinite possibilities of Indian art. His speech at the Naini Tal Art Society indicates another feature, a feature that adds force to his statements. The restraint, apparent in the speech, suggests the developing recognition of the far-reaching consequences and the stern responsibilities of the task, more or less self-imposed, which may, in the present conditions, easily become overwhelming. Belief in an age devoid of visions and empty of enthusiasms is hard of attainment. And, belief in Indian art, if it is being made increasingly common, should now cease to remain an intellectual consolation and be directed to wide-spread, if imperfect, achievement. Captain Gladstone Solomon has, therefore, done well to point out the difficulties of the task, the lack of adequate facilities of study, the discouraging conditions and atmosphere which the believer has to face almost at the first contact with reality. It is at this stage that the believer, if he is unconscious of the magnitude of his task, succumbs to the danger of inflexible attitudes and doctrines. Capt. Gladstone Solomon is, fortunately, safe from the danger. He recognises the responsibility of his task. He would, therefore, disapprove if Bombay became exclusive in its ideas. He would welcome the influx of fresh ideas and fresh discoveries in the domain of Indian art. He is, rightly, impatient of the water-tight compartments, the barriers, which divide the art activities of one province in the country from those of the other. Buildings, truly Indian and truly popular, have not, for instance, yet offered this chance to the advanced students in the provinces, who should be "encouraged rather than taught to apply that wonderful talent for the decoration of the wall spaces which is the unique possession of the Indian artist." Capt. Gladstone Solomon concludes his speech with a plea for tolerance and open-mindedness. He feels that to be the crucial point for Indian artists to grasp in the present period of revival. If that point is lost, it will be "through inaction rather than through action and by the exclusion of new ideas rather than by the absorption and conversion of them to essentially Indian conceptions." If belief in the vitality of Indian art is to be translated into well-considered action, tolerance and open-mindedness will certainly be its essential conditions. We hope the new Art Society of Naini Tal will soon begin to exercise its healthy influence over similar institutions in the other provinces. And we also hope it will keep its activities amenable to exchange of ideas with and suggestions from these institutions. We accept Sir William Morris' speech at the Lucknow Exhibition as a guarantee of the Society's attitude. And, we, therefore, wish it every success.

Notes of the Day.

Not to late.

Mr. Sastri has deprecated in the "Servant of India" any idea of resignation of M. L. A.'s. We feel, on the other hand, that if the Assembly re-elections had been held almost simultaneously with the Council of State's general election, it would have helped Swarajist penetration into the dull atmosphere of the Council. While in Madras, the Swaraj Party are contesting all the seats, in Bombay the Party has been strangely somnolent. Bombay has the right of returning six members, three from non-Mahomedan constituencies, one each from the Mahomedan electorate, Sind Muslins and the European Chamber of Commerce. So far the Swarajists had not put up candidates, but we are glad that Mr. Chitale has at last announced his candidature on behalf of the Swaraj Party. The Council has five years' life and those who go must be sturdy and independent men who should endeavour to introduce into the Chamber the more vigorous currents of nationalism. Mr. Ramdas, the solitary Swarajist in the Council, succeeded in disturbing to some extent its complacency and docility and we trust the advent of bolder nationalists will at least introduce some element of reality in the debates. It is not even now too late for the Swarajists to put up candidates if only for the sake of propaganda and education. If Manekji Dadabhai's cannot be completely isolated, they can at any rate be continuously unmasked by a small and energetic body of nationalists.

Bread "Riots" in Teheran.

Mr. G. K. Nariman writes:—"Renter and his ilk are doubtless making merry over the riots and the bloodshed and possibly the massacres all happening in Teheran. With only slight exaggeration we can compare the trouble there to the trouble that happened the same day in Bombay, where a policeman, having a shivering bout of malaria and being refused his overcoat ran amok and produced a temporary panic in the Police court. The fact which is really unfortunate is that there is a serious shortage of water in Teheran and of wheat supplies to the capital. And I had duly warned people of possible sensational cablings about wheat and water famine in the capital, since supplies for the capital from far off Hamadan, which is not connected by railway, were contemplated. But in the first place the difficulty is petty, and the solution is near at hand. Dr. Millspaugh, who went to America to bespeak the commercial sympathy of the magnates there, has returned with a more or less successful errand and America is bound to sink some of its surplus wealth in advancing Persia. The situation at Teheran has been magnified owing to certain mischievous elements that have entered the Majlis against the Premier's will and whose ulterior objects have been foreshadowed in the chimerical military expeditions of which I have already spoken. Although, as I have stated, there is a certain amount of shortage of wheat supply this year, the situation has been definitely manipulated by malcontents and is the perfect replica of what happened more than once within recent memory. Mr. Morgan Shuster described one such incident in 1910 when there were similar bread riots; "and a ring was formed by a number of reactionaries for the twofold purposes of enriching themselves and embarrassing the constitutional Government." Last year it was religion which was sought to be exploited for a serious disturbance in Persia. Exactly about the same time this year the energies of Persia, availing themselves of scarcity, have aimed at shaking the Government by law established in Iran."

Bombay Port Trust.

The Trustees of the Bombay Port Trust continue carrying on their work behind the purdah. Since we commenced publishing reports of the proceedings of their meetings, our contemporaries have been favoured with an official summary of their deliberations. But the Press reporter is still barred from attending the meetings of the Trustees. That is not, however, the only proof of the anti-diluvian manner in which the Trustees discharge their trust. We learn from the resolution moved by Mr. Lakshmidas Rowji Tairsee moved at yesterday's meeting that the communications addressed to the Chairman and Trustees are not circulated among the latter. This is an eloquent testimony to the sense of responsibility that the Trustees evince in their work. As Mr. Tairsee said, the practice, the adoption of which he suggested, is followed by the Corporation and the Standing Committee. In fact it should be followed by every responsible public body. But the Port Trust, dominated as it is by a non-Indian majority, is anything but responsible, much less responsive, to Indian public opinion. The rejection of Mr. Tairsee's resolution by a body constituted as the Port Trust is not surprising. What is amazing, however, is the opposition to it by Sir Purshottamdas Thakoredas and other Indian members except Messrs. Pheroze Sethna and Matani.

A Welcome Decision.

Thanks to the efforts of Mr. Lakshmidas Rowji Tairsee, the Trustees of the Bombay Port Trust have reversed the practice hitherto followed by them of forfeiting the Provident Fund contributions of employees dismissed from the service. The practice was unjust and iniquitous and in past years though some members of the Trust regarded it as such no serious attempt was made to abandon it. We are glad the Chairman of the Trust has lost no time in giving effect to the recent decision of the Board. At yesterday's meeting, on his proposal, the Board decided that two employees who have just been dismissed from service should be allowed to draw the full amount standing to their credit.

NATIONAL EDUCATION

HAS IT FAILED?

(BY A. T. GIDVANI.)

A friend put into my hands the other day a cutting from a local daily with the double column heading "National Education, Why it Failed?" The writer excludes the Gujarati Vidyapith specifically from his sweeping generalisations. But it will be as well to give your readers some more detailed account of the present state of the Vidyapith for I feel that in reference to that institution an effort to understand why it has succeeded will repay trouble better than any depressing analysis to the contrary.

The Broach School.

I know that the defection of the Charotar Education Society from the Vidyapith has been much advertised. I regret the loss that I have no desire to belittle. The Anand School of the Charotar Society standing in its beautiful grounds in open country has always been my most favourite institution in Gujarat. I have spent pleasant nights and interesting days in company of the enthusiastic boys and teachers of that school. But I should like to point out that that was not our only model school. In spite of all the dull reaction in politics the Gujarati Vidyapith can still boast of the beautiful institution at Broach that Purani Brothers, inspired originally by Shri Arbindo Ghosh, are running today with the support of that rare worker, Dr. Chandulal Desai. The Broach School is an ordinary natiemulate manufacturing institution. It has a farm attached to it where agriculture is taught. There is provision for training in Dentistry, and the Society owns a good printing press. An Akhara with excellent equipment has been built up by Mr. Anshul Purani. These provide an atmosphere the advantages of which in the education of the child may not be understated. Elsewhere they may be going on with the same old books and curricula. But that is certainly not so in the case of the Vidyapith. From the very beginning efforts were concentrated on production of suitable textbooks, and credit is due to the workers of this Broach institution for the rapidity with which they came into being.

Dakshina Murli Bhavan.

Another school, the fame of which has recently spread so wide that it hardly needs any mention from me is the Dakshinamurti Bhavan of Bhavnagar. There you have another set of idealistic young men trying to work out new ideas in Education. They are running an institution more consistently on the Montessori plan than I have seen anywhere else; and the atmosphere of their high school is really refreshing. They own simple buildings of their own in a really charming situation. I spent a day with them recently and it has left an abiding impression on my memory. They too are not content merely with natiemulate manufacture. Their ambition is to popularise the idea of freedom in Education; and they have produced stimulating literature on scholastic topics for which they also run a quarterly magazine. Both at Broach and at Bhavnagar you meet men with whom Education is a mission to which they have dedicated their lives. The usual assumption that politicians out of work are running national schools is misleading.

Ideals of Gujarat Vidyapith.

Gujaratis are not confined to Gujarat alone, and the Vidyapith too is represented far from its geographical boundaries. There is no more reason why I should not mention the Bharat Sanskriti Mandir of Karachi, than our institution in Bombay. I visited the Mandir in March last and again last month and in the interval the numbers had risen by nearly a hundred. The fact is specially worth noting when every other institution is losing numbers. Even in the college we have a hundred and fifteen students still. Frankly I did not expect half the number when I returned from jail. Our research department—the similar varieties of fabrics are produced so that they may, on their return, manufacture such fabrics in India. Mrs. Sarojini Naidu has received letters from numerous individuals regarding these scholarships and she asks us to state that the details of the scheme are being settled and will, in due course, be published in "The Chronicle" and applications for the scholarships invited through advertisement in the Press.

A New Ayurvedic School.

The Shri Keisava Ayurvedic Institution of Bombay is, we are glad to know, making satisfactory progress. It was started in 1921 by Mr. Purushottam Waman Panse, trained under the famous Ayurvedic physician of Poona, the late Mr. Balshankar Lavankar. At present there are, as understood, thirty students in the school, and the school is affiliated to the Vidyapith of Shrimat Shankaracharya at Nasik. We also understand that at the last final examination for the degree of "Ayurveda Ratna" five students of the school were successful. Mr. Panse's zeal for Ayurveda is commendable. He started his school entirely at his own expense and did useful work during the influenza epidemics. We congratulate him upon the progress his school has made against great financial odds and trust that the public of Bombay will enable him to develop the institution.

WAR AGAINST COMMUNISTS.

LABOUR PARTY'S BAN-
LIVERPOOL CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Sept. 29. Annual Conference of the Labour Party which opened today at Liverpool is the largest in the history of the movement. The principal question which was discussed was the proposal of the Executive Committee to exclude Communists from membership of the Party.

Mr. Saklatvala was present as a visitor. Mr. C. J. Cramp was elected as chairman on the motion of Mr. Ramsey MacDonald. Mr. Cramp in his speech emphasised that Labour's fundamental task was not to fight a class war but to create circumstances going to the root of the social evils which have caused the present stage of industrial and social chaos. He said it was for the Conference to give a lie to the charge that the Labour Party was advancing on the path of armed revolution. Mr. Cramp believed that the policy of applying methods of force to the affairs of a highly developed capitalist state was a dead end. He said the Labour Party should be a party of the future, not of the past.

Mr. Will Thorne, member of Parliament, in presenting the report of the Standing Orders Committee announced that Mr. A. J. Cook had withdrawn his nomination to the Executive. Dealing with the Executive's resolution which declared that no Communist should be a member of any section of any affiliated local Labour Party and no known Communist should be elected delegate to the conference, Mr. Thorne alluded to many Communist resolutions in this connection appearing in the agenda and said that in view of the emphatic decision of previous conferences that no Communist should be eligible for membership of the Labour Party or as the Labour Candidate for Parliament, the Executive had decided to enforce the standing order that it should not reappear on the agenda for three years. But the acceptance of the Executive's resolution could be discussed as a separate issue and if they adopted no resolution relating to Communist affiliation it would be in order.

"SAKLATVALA IS FRIEND OF LABOUR."

AMERICAN COMMUNIST DEMONSTRATION.

LONDON, Sept. 28. New York.—Carrying banners inscribed "Saklatvala is friend of Labour" two hundred communists awaited the arrival of the steamer bringing the British Delegation to the Inter-Parliamentary Congress. Some minor disturbances occurred at the pier, but the police suppressed the demonstration and enabled the delegates to drive to their hotels unmolested. —Reuter.

FRENCH DEBT.

AMERICAN COUNTER-PROPOSALS.

LONDON, Sept. 29. Paris.—According to "Le Matin's" Washington correspondent the American counter-proposals with regard to the French debt agree with the French demand that the commercial debt in connection with the stocks bought by Klotz in 1919 should be incorporated in the total political debt. This means that France will not have to pay 407 million dollars in 1929 and the twenty-million dollars she pays annually in interest will be reduced and merged in the future annual payments. The American proposals do not object to the protection clause providing against France being crushed by too heavy annual payments. Finally, they consent to reduction of the total unpaid interest due. —Reuter's Special.

I. C. S. RESULTS.

LONDON, Sept. 29. The Civil Service Commissioners announce that the following persons have obtained the first twelve places in order of merit in the recent Indian Civil Service examination: D. C. TWO YEARS FOR POLICE SERGEANT.

POONA, Sept. 29. Mr. H. C. Fleming, the City Magistrate, yesterday evening sentenced Sergt. D. M. Shaw of the District Police, Lonavla, to two years' rigorous imprisonment for theft of a gold watch and a dressing case from two railway passengers travelling between Bombay and Poona. The Magistrate remarked that the offence was a serious one against which the public had to be protected. The accused had committed the offence which he was there to prevent. —A. P.

MUSIC IN MOROCCO.

CURIOUS EFFECT ON BELLIGERENTS.

MADRID, Sept. 29. It is reported that in the course of the recent Spanish attack on the Moroccan and Malaga heights music curiously affected the Belligerents. Firing was most fierce during the advance when the Spanish native regulars began to play the Leggiero. As the sound increased in volume and notes were wafted afar, firing gradually died down in both the camps until eventually it ceased. The report concludes: "As each player fingered his last note, vociferous cheers greeted the performance not only from the Spanish lines but also from the rebel trenches." —Reuter's Special.

RAINS CHECK FRENCH ADVANCE.

RIFFS' COUNTER-ATTACK.

LONDON, Sept. 28. Paris.—According to the message from Fez, ominous rainstorms are falling in the Taza region which if prevailing the beginning of the rainy season are likely to delay the maturity of French plans for a considerable time. The river Moussou has overflowed, temporarily dislocating telegraphic communication between Fez and Taza. At present the Riffs are trying to occupy the centre stage and are counter-attacking at several points. Sharpshooters are harassing the French garrison at Bilhang. The French claim that they have not only repulsed attacks but that they have also succeeded in advancing slightly in the eastern sector. —Reuter.

MILITARY MOVEMENTS RESUMED.

LONDON, Sept. 29. Paris.—A message from Fez says that the rain has stopped and that military movements have been resumed. Abdel Karim is reinforcing his troops unsuccessfully attempted to occupy several posts. Abdel Karim threatens dire vengeance on the tribes which have submitted to the French after they anticipated that they would be beaten by the Spaniards. —Reuter.

FRENCH WITHDRAWAL FROM SUEIDA.

LONDON, Sept. 28. Paris.—A telegram from Beirut says that after the relief of Sueida and evacuation of the wounded and the sick, the French column has withdrawn to the region of Messouffe as Sueida is waterless, and also in order to revictual itself and prepare for further operations with the object of subduing the remainder of the hostile tribes. —Reuter.

LONDON, Sept. 28. HINDU-MUSLIM TENSION

HARTAL IN MANY PLACES

DASSERA PROCESSIONS ABANDONED.

YEOTMAL, Sept. 28. A dispute having arisen between the Hindus and the Mussulmans of Dhanki in the Pusad Taluka over the question of the taking of a procession accompanied by music in front of a Mosque, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate had to hasten to the spot, who after enquiries issued an order prohibiting the Hindus from taking out a procession with music in front of the Mosque for a period of two months. The Hindus of the locality who felt dissatisfied at this order have decided not to perform the Dassera celebrations and have resorted to hartal. They have also decided not to co-operate with the Mahomedans in any way.

A Dhanki message says that the Hindus of Dhanki have decided, on the expiry of the period of notice to take their procession from the mosque with music, at all risks. The Hindus of Unmarked are also reported to have observed a sympathetic hartal by way of protest against the order and a public meeting of the Hindus at the latter place strongly protested against the Magistrate's order and supported the decision of the Dhanki people. —A. HARTAL AT JUBBULPORE.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

JUBBULPORE, Sept. 28. At a mass meeting of Hindus held at Samariyawali Rani's Kothi on Sunday the 27th inst. under the Presidency of Seth Govinddas, M.L.A., the following resolution moved by Mr. Shyam Sunder Bhargava, M.L.C., and supported by Mr. Bhekar Rajendrasingh and others, was passed: "Whereas last year on the day of the Dassera gross injustice was done to us by attacking our Ramliha procession and assaulting a number of our Kabis, whereas Government have not fulfilled their promise of holding an enquiry to trace out the persons who assaulted Kabis and started riot, whereas the fact that in order to express grief we abstained from observing our Diwali, Holi and other festivals falling in the course of the year failed to produce any impression and whereas our natural right of freely playing music before mosques is being denied to us, we Hindus of Jubbulpore have observed complete hartal today, the day of our Dassera celebrations, and have here assembled in meeting to express our heartfelt resentment and we hereby resolve not to celebrate any of our festivals in future until and unless our natural religious rights are conceded to us."

Three copies of this resolution have been sent to His Excellency Governor of C. P. and Berar, the Commissioner, Jubbulpore Division, and the Deputy Commissioner, Jubbulpore District.

GAYA HINDUS OBSERVE "HARTAL"

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

GAYA, Sept. 28. Local Hindus observe peaceful hartal on Sunday as a protest against the official prohibition of public meetings, carriage of lathis and playing of music on public roads during the Dassera festival. An unarmed party going to Duhsharidevi near the Jomuna Masjid for worshipping was severely assaulted by the police and beaten with regulation lathis. Several persons were made indiscriminately at dead of night. All Dassera processions have been stopped as a protest.

PROCESSION AT NAGPUR.

PASSES OFF PEACEFULLY.

Dr. B. S. Moonje wired from Nagpur yesterday as follows:—The much advertised annual Dassera procession of Raja Laxmanrao Sahib Bhonsle Junior representative of the Bhonsla royal family of Nagpur which was obstructed by the Mahomedans two years ago and had, therefore, to be suspended for the last two years, passed off peacefully yesterday with great pomp, playing bands and music along the traditional route over the Bhayra Darwaja Road past the Bhayra Darwaja Mosque. Young Hindu boys newly trained in horse riding joining the procession on their own horses. The local Akali Jathas joining the procession enhanced the natural Mahatma warlike appearance of the procession. The procession was joined also by Mahomedan leaders such as Nawab Nazimuddin Khan, Barrister Yusuf Sharief and others, who freely mixed with the Hindu leaders and were treated with the usual honours of the Dassera procession. The settlement of the long standing music dispute between Hindus and Muslims of Nagpur as brought about by Maulana Abul Kalam Azad and Pandit Motilal Nehru was thus honourably respected and observed by both sides throughout the several music! Hindu processions on the months of August and September, such as the Keshiha, Hariadika, Ganvati and Dassera processions and also the Jain processions. Both the communities deserve hearty congratulations for their unity.

EXPULSION BILL.

GRATUITOUS INSULT TO INDIANS.

EUROPEANS VOTE AGAINST BURMANS.

RANGOON, Sept. 28. The Home Member in presenting the Select Committee's report on the Non-Burman Offenders Expulsion Bill said Mr. Anzani seemed to be under the misconception that the Bill was against Indians but that was not so. It was against bad men who were not wanted in Burma. There were hundreds of other nationals affected including Straits-born Chinese. The objection which at first sight appeared to be a very serious one was nothing more than a bogey. After the motion for consideration of the Bill was passed, discussion commenced. All Indian members took part in the debate and opposing the Bill said it was a gratuitous insult to Indians and no necessity had been shown for such legislation which was not fair at the present moment when Government was fighting for the position of Indians in the Colonies.

Mr. Anzani opposing the Bill said the Indian Community being the largest community in Burma, one could not get away from the fact that the Bill was intended to apply to Indians.

Messrs. J. K. Manshi and Rafi thought it was most impolitic to bring forward legislation of such a repulsive nature when Government was trying to get Indians full rights of citizenship abroad.

Mr. Brancer, Chief Secretary, remarked that the agitation against the Bill was fictitious.

Mr. Ea Yin (Nationalist) said his party supported the Bill on its merits and marked that no good would result by stirring up racial strife. The arguments of the Indian members were absurd.

Mr. Narayan Rao protested against the Bill because it was Burman and not Indians who were responsible for crime according to statistics. Sir Adam Ritchie (Burma Chamber) opposed the Bill as it would create anti-racial feeling. He remarked that political progress in Burma was only due to the presence and co-operation of Indians and Europeans in this province.

The Bill was pressed to a division and passed by 56 votes to 15 all European non-official members voted with Indians against the Bill while Karens and Burmans voted with Government.

The Finance Member then presented the Rangoon Port Amendment Bill as amended by the Select Committee. The Bill provides for the increase of four Commissioners to represent the non-European mercantile community.

After discussion and opposition from the Nationalist party the Bill was passed voting 28 for and 39 against.

The President announced that the present Council would be dissolved on the 10th October and a general election would take place on November 17th. The last session of the present Council was concluded and the Council prorogued. —A. P.

BOMBAY LABOUR SITUATION.

EXODUS CONTINUES.

ACTIVITY OF CRIMINAL ELEMENTS.

There is no likelihood of any change in the mill strike situation taking place till Diwali holidays are over. On Tuesday the same three mills viz., Indian Woollen, Bombay Dyeing and Frampri Potli, were found working. The peaceful exodus of the operatives to their village homes continues. It has, however, given an incentive to the criminal elements in the city to resort to their unlawful operations. In the early hours of Tuesday one such case occurred opposite the Union Mill in a quarter thickly populated by the operatives. It appeared one police constable No. 2261 was on patrol duty at about 4 a.m. when he saw one Mohomedan bargaining with a victoria driver to go to Manampana. He offered the driver eight annas while the latter wanted one rupee. The Mohomedan had a bundle of clothes in his hands. When the police constable challenged the Mohomedan, the latter said he was going to his country with his luggage. The driver was about to move when the constable got in the victoria and handcuffed the Mohomedan and told the driver to drive to the De Lisle Road Police Station. When near the police station the Mohomedan in spite of the handcuffs on his hands jumped off his seat and tried to run away, but he was re-arrested and taken to the police station after a great deal of struggle with half a dozen policemen. The police enquired showed that this Mohomedan was Gaverdina Kalsar (25) a native of Allahabad and without any fixed residence or occupation in Bombay. He had broken open the shop of one Pranjiwan Pushpam, a cloth merchant, having his shop opposite the Union Mill and removed goods to the value of Rs. 500. Pranjiwan came to his shop at about 9 a.m. and seeing the shop ransacked, he began to cry loudly. Some people collected there and some one informed the police, who took Pranjiwan to the police station and showed him the goods which he identified as his own. Further police enquiries in the matter are in progress.

DEMAND FOR OUTSTANDING WAGES.

Yesterday morning about 150 operatives collected near the gates of the Jamshed mill, situate at Ferguson Road, and demanded outstanding wages from the management. They were paid off promptly. After receiving their dues the operatives left the mill premises peacefully without making any demonstration.

The G. I. P. Railway have made special arrangement for checking tickets at stations thus preventing passengers from travelling without tickets.

SOCIALIST PARTY KANGAR SANGHA.

EFFORT AT IMPROVING WORKERS' LOT.

The Secretary, nominated by the Central Executive of the move organisation, named as Simla, who is at present in Bombay writes:—

The necessity and utility of having an organisation exclusively composed of the workers for their exclusive benefit, is being felt more acutely now than at any previous occasion. The fact that all the cotton mills of this city, without any exception whatsoever, have decided through the Mill-owners' Association—an organisation composed of capitalists to safeguard their own exclusive interests to cut the wages of the workers, in spite of the fact that 30 to 35 per cent. of them are not only not working at a loss but actually reap some gain, is clearly indicative of the strength of a living and strong organisation. Protests against the wage cut emanating from the disorganised and distracted workers are ignored entirely by such a powerful organisation and no answer is any longer to be taken up their cause with unflinching courage and dogged persistence is felt all the longer day by day.

Learning from their past bitter experience and the present embittered attitude of their Masters' Association, the workers at least now realise the potentiality and supreme need of organised resistance, as also the necessity of a real workers' organisation solely for their own benefit, let them join the "Socialist Party Kangar Sangha" inaugurated by the great labourers of this country—people who sincerely sympathise with the lot of the workers and who are prepared to do all that they possibly can to remove their grievances and advance their just cause. Every worker who pays money subscription of only "One Anna a Week" will be entitled to be a member of the Sangha, and all such members will, according to the constitution of the said Sangha, be eligible for the following benefits:—

1. "Sickness benefit";
2. "Unemployment benefit";
3. "Death benefit".

The offices of the above Sangha are proposed to be located at some suitable central place in the mill area of Parel.

NATIONAL EDUCATION.

Great Puratva Mandir of Gujarat—has also grown steadily. Its publications are solid contributions to learning, and students growing under professors engaged in advanced study and research are more truly educated than those who plod on from day to day taking down second and third hand notes and committing them to memory. The college and the Puratva Mandir and the boarding-house are all housed together in a compact building away from the town in beautiful open country.

Vernacular is the medium of both instruction and examination in all the schools, and even in the college, of the fifteen professors I believe only one is delivering his lectures in English. I started lecturing on European history and Political Theories last term in Hindi and I find that I need not have waited so long to introduce this change.

I claim that this is a record of success and not failure, we have worked only for five years, five very extraordinary years; we have worked against heavy odds; we have no endowments, no recognised commercial value for our degrees to attract students, no glamour of the State, and now no spirit even of non-cooperation in the country to help us. We depend only on our honest efforts to give real education in an atmosphere free from all taint of slave psychology. We invite those to join us whose aim in life is not Government service or flattery, but independent walks of national service in literature and the arts in education and social service. Commerce absorbs most of the young men in Gujarat, and even for them we provide suitable training.

If young men in Gujarat have really shaken off the glamour of British Rule which attaches to Government institutions not even the question of bread and butter need keep them away from our colleges. I am in fairly close touch with my ex-students and I venture to challenge the statement that there is a serious problem of unemployment among them.

To sum up the Gujarat Vidyapith is adding up its credit even through these days of depression, groups of idealistic workers in different centres have contributed to this result; it is a pioneer institution working out new ideals in Indian Education. Its ideals are high and its achievements, I humbly claim, are not mean.

RUN OVER BY TRAIN.

BODY LIES UNATTENDED FOR 20 HOURS.

Narsu Subaya, a Hindu (39), was found lying on the railway lines of the G. I. P. Railway near Matunga Station at about 4.30 p.m. on Sunday. A gatekeeper informed the Station Master, Sion, of the incident, but he told the gatekeeper to report to the Station Master at Matunga as it was his jurisdiction.

One of Narsu's relatives named Rawoo went to the spot and found him in great agony. He died at about 6.30 p.m. The dead man was kept near the railway lines, the whole of Sunday night and Monday morning. At about 11 a.m. on Monday the police came and removed the body to the morgue. After Narsu's death till the police arrived a watch was kept over his body by his relative Rawoo. The body was kept for nearly 20 hours unattended.

The Coroner held an inquest and summoned the Station Master, Matunga, to give evidence as to why he did not take immediate action for the removal of the injured man to a hospital.

L. B. Theser, Station Master, Matunga, said he was on duty on Sunday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. He came to know of the incident at 10 a.m. on Monday. Witness immediately sent a report to the police. A gatekeeper from Agarwada Gate came to witness on Monday morning to give the information.

To the Court:—One Govind Krishna Thorve who is my assistant was at the station on the 27th instant at about 4.30 or 5 p.m. At that time I was in my cabin inspecting it. The gatekeeper appears to have informed him of the accident. Thorve did not inform me about it. He relieved me at 8 p.m. that day but did not mention the accident to me at all. If the Station Master of Sion had information of the occurrence it was his duty to send a telegram to all concerned. He could have arranged for the discharge of his duty. If he had injured man to hospital. I say he failed in the discharge of his duty. If he had sent me a telegram I would have arranged to have the injured man taken to hospital but I heard nothing till 10 a.m. the next day.

Dinker Nimbray, Station Master, Sion, replying to the court said:—I did not send a telegram to all concerned because the accident had not happened in my Section.

Coroner:—Do I understand you to say that in your opinion the question of your jurisdiction was more important than the life of a human being?

Witness:—I did not send a telegram to

ART TENDENCIES IN BOMBAY.

ter-dependent than they are in Europe. The Life of the Bombay School of Art lies in its Painting and Drawing Classes and these are run upon a very definite and easily explainable system. The object of that system is to teach students first to see secondly to draw, and thirdly to paint. When their eyes have been opened, and their hands trained, then the task of the School of Art is accomplished. We do not profess to teach them colour except in so far as training their powers of perception goes. I remember the late Mr. J. S. Sargent impressing this fact upon me when I was a student, and restricting the scope of his instruction entirely to the correcting of form, tone values, and proportion, and I believe that the dictum of that Modern Master was absolutely right. Every student's colour is his own. But he may be taught to draw correctly by drawing from the antique casts, the Hecatombe of Life, and the draped and undraped figure from Life. So far we think we are on firm ground, and we claim that the results achieved justify us in so thinking. The students can draw,

A Warning.

And now ladies and gentlemen, a word of warning! Let us go slowly. Rome was not built in a day. Nor can the fabric of a sound art training be built up in a few years. The Life Classes were started less than six years ago. What is the use then of expecting impossible results? We might have copied the Ajanta Frescoes and gone on copying them and shown these and called them Indian Art. They would not have been Indian Art at all any more than the copies of Botticelli which are being manufactured in the National Gallery of London are Italian Art. We do not want copying except as an adjunct to the study of Life itself. If there be any use in copying at all (and Sir Joshua Reynolds had grave doubts about its real utility) it can only be as a supplementary study. The study of the finest antique statue or painting whether Greek or Indian cannot supersede the study of Nature, though it can aid that study. We are admirers of Indian Art, we adore and reverence it; we bend in awe before its majestic manifestations and we desire to see its splendid renaissance. But how can we help the Indian students in our charge? It is a great—a solemn responsibility. It might well prove an overwhelming one, but for one saving factor in the case. We the teachers have in turn our Teacher. We turn in our agonies of doubt in the only direction whence help can reach us—we turn to Nature. "When in doubt go to Nature" might well be the motto blazoned over the portals of the World's Schools of Art. And immediately our doubts roll away from us—we can stand steady beneath the fire of criticism, because we have not subscribed to any doctrinaire creed, whether Indian or European, we have simply founded our artistic faith on Nature as on a rock. And to Nature we lead the students. When a student can draw the human head and the human figure accurately he has acquired something which he can never lose. He has mastered the grammar of the language of Art. What message he will give the world now that he is proficient is his own affair. Thanks largely to the great interest taken in the School of Art by the Governors of Bombay facilities for study are being given to the students which they have not enjoyed previously.

Not so Fragile.

We approach Indian art from the practical viewpoint of artist-craftsman. However wonderful may be the message of creative art which the young student feels surging within him—however splendid his dreams, he cannot make these materialise upon canvas or on the walls until he has mastered the practical methods of graphic expression which belong to the artist's calling. The Ajanta Cave Masters were not merely mystic dreamers, but a band of energetic workers, who tackled their work with keen knowledge and complete efficiency. There was nothing fabulous or uncertain about those Masters of Line, Form, and Decoration. If we believe in Indian Art at all can we suppose it to be so fragile a thing as to be in danger of succumbing in Bombay because many Bombay Artists delight to paint Nature naturally? Is the Indian personality so slight as to be overwhelmed because Indian Artists are absorbing what the West has to teach them in technique (as of old they absorbed the Greek artistic influences), and making it their own? I have no shadow of doubt that so long as Indian Artists refuse to copy the West but resolutely continue to copy Nature they are on the right lines. They have long been denied the facilities for training that all artists require, and they are proving by those facilities with the swiftness of men who march upon a set goal. The popular class of Mural Painting in the Bombay School of Art some examples of whose work you will see on the slides, will I think indicate to you the fusion of inherent decorative capacities and Nature study and the hopelessness of the outlook. In that—the highest class of the School of Art—the advanced students are encouraged rather than taught to apply that wonderful talent for the decoration of wall spaces which is the unique possession of the Indian Artist. The final vindication of the Bombay School of Art must be by means of the walls of Indian Buildings.

Fresh Ideas not Dogmas.

I have endeavoured to give you some account of the system of tuition in the School of Art of Bombay and I trust I have made it clear that we do not dogmatise on the subject of art training in India. On the contrary Bombay is not at all exclusive in its ideas of Indian Art. It welcomes the influx of fresh ideas, fresh discoveries, in this (to me) most enthralling of all fields of study. It acknowledges the debt of local artists and art students to Bombay's art-loving Governors. It advocates the interchange of ideas between the different Provinces, and it recognises that the artistic problems of the Country differ with different districts. Thus in one part of India we find certain types of painting which are perhaps peculiar to that district, special styles in sculpture, special Crafts and distinctive artistic customs. For this reason it is that we welcome opportunities such as the present one which the Committee of the Nairi Tal Art Society have so kindly given me and which directly encourages the interchange of views between the Provinces. For we feel that too long have the great art-producing areas of India worked in water-tight compartments so to speak, and that the sooner that the barriers that divide them are eliminated—not artificially but by the growth of the interchange of mutual ideas—the sooner shall we see the rebirth of a national art in India, such as existed in the old Buddhist days. It is with this grand ultimate goal in view that so many people on the Bombay side are advocating with such enthusiasm the scheme for the re-arrangement of Indian Art which has become known by the name of the Prize of Delhi scheme, and which has for its object the providing of post-graduate courses in the Fine Arts for the most brilliant art students in this country. Some of you may have seen the important utterances on that topic delivered by the Right Honourable Sir George Lloyd in London and by His Excellency Sir Leslie Wilson in Bombay. You may also be aware that a very influential Committee in Bombay including names inextricably linked with the advance of Art in Western India as those of the Hon'ble Mr. Sethna, Mr. M. R. Jaykar, and Mr. K. H. Vakil have put forward most interesting suggestions on this subject. The idea of a measure of State patronage for Art is merely as old as Art itself, and has always been regarded in artistic countries as indispensable. Indian Art will never be revived to reanimate our world until a share of such patronage is forthcoming commensurate with the extent and scope of the Country's potential artistic forces. Indians themselves of course must recast Indian Art, but the stable nucleus of Central State Patronage would be of essential service to Art as a means of concentrating and clarifying public efforts.

Tolerance and Open Mindedness.

You are fortunate, ladies and gentlemen, in possessing in your Governor His Excellency Sir William Marris, a leader whose eyes are fully open to the value of India's inherent artistic power and the significance of contemporary movements. No one, I am sure, who has read the newspaper reports of His Excellency's great speech at the opening of the All-India Art Exhibition at Lucknow can have failed to derive from that speech a new appreciation of the meaning of art-history and of comparative values, in their relation to present-day problems in Indian Art. But it seems to me that the most vital element in that oration was in the plea which it contained, and which indeed seemed to me to permeate it, for tolerance and open-mindedness. That is I feel sure the crucial point for Indian Artists to grasp in the present period of Revival. We who have faith in the permanence of India's unique standpoint in Art know that if there exists a risk of that standpoint being lost (to the detriment of all mankind) it will be through inaction rather than through action; and by the exclusion of new ideas rather than by the absorption and conversion of them to essentially Indian conception.
